CHOLERA'S CAMPAIGN.

New York's Health Board Officials Maintaining Quarantine With Unwearied Energy.

The Yellow Flag Displayed on the Steamships Normannia and Rugia To-Day.

A Reported Death From Asiatic Cholera is Proved by Autopsy to be Alcoholism.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Wholesale druggists in this city are beginning to be deluged with orders from members of the retail trade in numerous sections of the country for supplies of respirators, or the little net work coverings for the mouth which are largely used in England in the winter time by victims of asthmatic affections. The wearing of one of these respirators is held by many prominent physicians to be considered a safeguard against the reception of the cholera bachilli into the system through the mouth, and consequently may be worn to advantage both in the house and upon the street. By the wearing of a respirator and the boiling of all food and drink many physicians claim that the system can be so fortified against cholera that even the worst plague spots may be visited and traversed with impunity.

Certain it Was Cholera.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The World says: "Dr. Robert de Shon sent to the Board of Health late yesterday afternoon a certificate that Charles McElroy, of 857 Tenth avenue, died on Friday of Asiatic cholera. The patient was taken ill on Tuesday morning and died and his body was removed to the pest house after what was alleged to have been a secret autopsy. McElroy was a plasterer, and is said to have worked on the steamship wharves. When the certificate was filed, Dr. de Shon was asked by an attache of the board if he was certain of the facts and whether he would adhere to his statement in the certificate. He said he saw no reason to doubt that the man had died of cholera. The Board of Health will investigate the case.

The Dread Symbol.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The yellow flag was hoisted on the Normannia and Rugia, at Hoffman's Island, to-day, indicating at least one cholera case on each. A suspicious case of diarrhœa trouble in Second avenue is under investigation by the health board. Hellgate is now guarded against the entering of foreign vessels by a government tug. An autopsy on the body of Chas. McAvay shows that he died of alcoholism, and not cholera, as certified by the physicians.

To Transfer Passengers.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Mayor Grant had a conference last night with J. Pierpont Morgan, concerning the securing of a steamer for the transfer of passengers from the quarantine ships. This morning Morgan telephoned the mayor that the steamer Storrington was at the disposal of the health department. The mayor at once communicated the fact to Dr. Jenkins, and that official will make the necessary arrangements with Morgan for securing the vessel.

Supplies for the Prisoners.

By order of the board of health, the quarantine commissioners held a conference this morning and decided to comply with the requests of the health officer in regard to supplies of clothing and brandy. Commissioner Allen took down to Hoffman and Swinburne Islands this morning 100 suits of clothes for the use of the men detained, to be worn by them during the fumigation of their own garments. A hundred Mother Hubbard wrappers have been sent down for the use of the women. Large supplies of claret, wine, brandy, several barrels of alcohol, disinfectants and other necessaries have been supplied by the commissioners. The telegraph cable is completed and connected with Hoffman and Swinburne islands, also the boarding station at quarantine. Considerable difficulty has been encountered in securing telegraph operators, but the commissioners expect to have a sufficient supply by to-morrow. The infected islands, Swinburne and Hoffman, have not so far been properly lighted. A large quantity of gasoline was sent down to quarantine to-day, and the islands will be lighter and more cheerful.

Alcohol, not Cholera.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The following is the official bulletin issued by the health board this morning: 10 a.m. No cases of cholera have appeared in the city. The death reported by Dr. R. Deshon as caused by Asiatic cholera, proves, upon autopsy, to have been caused by alcoholism.

Coming Round the Horn.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 8.—The lighthouse tender Columbine is now on her long voyage to her station at Portland, Or. The Columbine is the second of the tenders built by the Globe Works here. She will reach Tompkinsville, where she is to be formally delivered to the Government, about September 20th. After a brief delay she will set out for her trip around Cape Horn. Lieut.-Commander West of Tompkinsville took charge of the Columbine here on Monday, and, with a party, started for his station. She is almost an exact duplicate of the Lilac, which is now in service at Portland, Maine.

Shot His Wife's Betrayer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—About 10:30 last night Captain Keenlie Hayner, of a canal boat lying at the water front in Jersey City, shot and killed Captain Michael Adams, master of another canal boat, and then shot his wife. Hayner suspected that Adams was intimate with Mrs. Hayner, and last night he followed his wife ashore and saw her meet Adams in the shadow of a big coal trestle on the water front. A moment later Hayner sprang at the couple and fired four shots point blank at Adams, every bullet taking effect, and Adams sank to the ground dead. Captain Hayner then put a bullet through his wife's left breast and she fell beside Adams. He then went directly to police headquarters and delivered himself to the police. Mrs. Hayner's wound was pronounced fatal.

Fatal Fooling.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 8. — Harlan Lowe, an Indian Territory cowboy, while on his way home last night on a passenger train, stepped on the platform of the smoker to try a new revolver, and began shooting at telegraph poles as the train ran along. The trainmen and passengers attempted to restrain him but could not do so. Then N. W. Harris, another cowboy, tried his hand. Harris ran into the car with Lowe in pursuit flourishing his revolver, which he suddenly brought to a level and firing, killed Harris. Lowe was arrested. The tragedy caused great excitement among the passengers.

Lost in the Arctic.

PAILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—The British bark Salina, Capt. Peterson, the first of the Greenland fleet to arrive this year, came into port yesterday. Capt. Peterson states that he has neither seen nor heard anything of the steamer Kite, which went to the relief of Lieut. Peary and party.

She Must Chew.

DUNELLEN, N. J., Sept. 8.—Mrs. Elizabeth Whitenack, of this place, 97 years of age, has had a new set of false teeth made for her by her dentist. This is probably the only case on record of a woman of such great age having such service performed.

Drowned While Fishing.

ALEXANDRIA, Minn., Sept. 8.—Geo. R. Grant, a millionaire attorney, the guest for a few days of Wm. B. Keep, both of Chicago, at the Chicago club on Lake Minnelenka, in this county, was drowned yesterday while fishing.

TROY, N.Y., Sept. 8.—The conference of colored Republicans is being held here for the purpose of devising plans for a thorough organization of the colored voters of the state. The attendance is large.

A FINANCIAL CRISIS.

The Baring Failure Set in Motion a Wave of Disaster.

Bankers' Magazine.]

It will be two years in November since the collapse of the house of Baring set in motion what has been aptly termed "a wave of disaster" which has flowed to every shore. Country after country has since experienced a tremendous financial crisis. The Argentine Republic has met with a terrific blow, from which it cannot hope fully to recover in less than a quarter of a century. Brazil has been hard hit commercially and financially. Uruguay has experienced a serious banking crisis. Portugal is bankrupt. In Australia the financial crisis has been exceeding by severe and prolonged and thousands of firms have failed, many banks have suspended and trade has been demoralized. In Cape Colony, that tip end of the huge African continent, where England rules, the bankers and merchants have gone through a general liquidation. And now a disastrous crisis is felt in the great commercial cities of the Chinese coast, Hong-Kong and Shanghai. In these cities the depreciation of property is conservatively estimated at $25,000,000. The banks are loaded with commercial paper, the value of which no one can estimate. For several years past there has been a regular "boom" in Hong-Kong in the formation of companies to carry on all sorts of business in North Borneo, the British Straits Settlements and Tonquin. A large amount of capital was subscribed by the British merchants and bankers of Hong-Kong, which, as is well known, is one of the dependencies of the British crown. Bet the companies organized did not produce returns, and the people who had borrowed money of the Hong-Kong banks to invest in the shares of these companies could not meet their obligations. Two months ago the New Oriental Bank closed its doors, and one other institution, the Bank of China, only managed to pay a dividend by overvaluing its stock of silver.

A Famous "Rocking Stone."

The "moving stone of South America," one of the most remarkable of the many curious geological formations known to scientists, is located on the Tandil Mountains, in the southern part of the Republic of Buenos Ayres. It is known to the inhabitants, both far and near, both civilized and savage, as the "Rocking monument of God," and many tribes of Indians really believe that some great deity is buried beneath it. It is an enormous granite boulder, sustained on its axis by an almost invisible base, the oscillating movement being east and west, or to and from the mountain. The power of a single man is sufficient to put it in action, and motion is frequently imparted to the gigantic mass by a strong gust of wind. It measures twenty-four feet in height, about ninety in length and eighteen feet in breadth. Its figure is that of an irregular cone, then the base upon which it rests having the form of a pyramidal cone also, its diameter being but ten inches at the point where the enormous boulder rests. An early writer in speaking of this oddity says: "When the wind blows from the southeast, the moving stone may be seen rising and falling after the manner of waves on the ocean."

QUEBEC FULLY GUARDED.

Mayor Fremont Issues a Proclamation Declaring the Port Closed to Immigration.

The Allan Line Agent Telegraphs Instructions to Liverpool Accordingly.

Heavy Toll Paid by a Canadian Steamer—The White Squadron Affair—Mercier's Estate.

QUEBEC, Sept. 8.—Mayor Fremont sent the following dispatch this morning: Dr. Montizambert, Grosse Isle, by proclamation of the Lieut-Governor the law prohibiting the importation of immigrants in this province from European ports and cargo from infected ports is now in force. Kindly inform captains that this city of Quebec will not permit any violation of the law and will prevent all landing of immigrants as also cargo from infected ports.

Mr. W. Rae learning of the Government's action cabled instructions to Liverpool that no more immigrants must be shipped by the Allan line of steamers for the St. Lawrence, and arranged with Hon. L. P. Pelletier that all possible facilities be afforded the health officers to examine, disinfect and if necessary quarantine those now on their way out.

Trades and Labor Congress.

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—The eighth annual session of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, comprising trades councils, trades unions, and district and local assemblies of the Knights of Labor, was called to order at ten o'clock this morning by Hon. Urbain Lafontaine. General Master Workman Powderly and other high officials of the Knights of Labor in the United States are in attendance. The report to be submitted by Secretary-Treasurer Geo. W. Dower will show that the ranks of the trades unionists of the Dominion have been greatly strengthened during the past year, and that complete harmony prevails among the various organizations.

Palatial Rolling Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—The "Yellowstone" is a palace on wheels and Mr. Jerome Marble, of Worcester, Mass., is the happy owner. He and a party of friends are going across the continent in the "Yellowstone." They are now in Montreal, and from here they will proceed to Vancouver. The "Yellowstone" is a sort of embodied dream, going at the rate of 30 miles an hour. There are parlors, drawing-rooms, bedrooms, bath-rooms, kitchens and pretty nearly everything that the fancy could suggest and money procure.

Heavy Tolls Paid.

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Sept. 8.—The largest amount of tolls collected from any one boat since President Harrison's proclamation went into effect was paid on Sunday night by the steamer Rosedale, bound from Fort William to Kingston. She had 1738 tons of wheat on board for which she paid tolls amounting to £647.60.

OTTAWA NOTES.

Energetic Place-Hunters on the Warpath—The Cabinet at Work.

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—Thompson, Haggart, Foster and Caron returned to-day from the big political demonstration at Petrolia. They say it was a big affair. They are badgered with all kinds of delegations, it being really the first business day since the holidays. Dr. Sproule, M.P. for East Grey, is here after the position of Minister of Agriculture, hearing it was to be vacant in the coming deal. Dr. Bergin is also looking for a cabinet position. Both are old-time servers of the party, but would make no improvement on the timber now in the Government.

The cabinet council are sitting to-day dealing with the conflict which has risen between the province of Quebec and the Dominion over quarantine matters.

TERMINAL CITY TALK.

A Lumber Mill Goes Up in Smoke—Desperate Fistic Encounter.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 8.—The planing mill and sash factory of the Michigan Lumber company, on False Creek, was burned at 6 o'clock this morning. Loss $10,000, including $3500 worth of lumber. The insurance is $3000 on the building and contents. The total stock of lumber was insured. The fire is supposed to have originated in a back room and from there to have been communicated to the drying room, soon putting the whole building in flames. The firemen were on hand promptly, but owing to the distance of the hydrant from the scene, only one stream could be thrown on the flames. They managed to save the sawmill about fifty yards distant.

Two longshoremen, Belfast and Lewis, after the receipt of the news of the prize fight, quarrelled on the merits of the men and a ring was pitched in the C.P. R. freight shed. The men fought desperately for half an hour when Lewis was knocked out. No arrests have been made.

SAVED FROM A BAD LIFE.

Deadly Trap Doors—Death of Charles McLure in the Insane Asylum.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Sept. 8.—In the early part of the week a woman arrived from Blaine with a girl 14 years of age, brought here for immoral purposes. A few hours after her arrival in the city, a man turned up in hot pursuit and asked the assistance of the police to get the girl away from the woman. Later in the day the father also came over and the pair located the girl, who would not at first promise to return as she complained of cruelty at home. Good judgment, however, prevailed and all returned to Blaine this morning, the daughter expressing sorrow for her conduct.

The Board of works is about to issue orders that all trap doors in the sidewalk not properly constructed shall be nailed up. This comes about through an accident to a lady named Mrs. Law, who was seriously injured through falling through one last week. A minute examination all over town will be made by the police.

The new B. C. College has opened with eighteen pupils and the prospect of many more in the course of a short time.

Charles McLure, who has been in the asylum here for 18 years, died on Tuesday night. McLure used to reside in Victoria before being placed in that institution, and was a brother to Leonard McLure, who made the famous speech of 16 hours' duration in the old colonial parliament, to defeat a bill that his party was opposed to.

H. G. Mathies, proprietor of the Seattle Pythian Herald, is in town, making arrangements for the accommodation of knights here during the carnival. He says the Premier will bring an excursion over, calling at all the Sound cities.

Richard Henwood, charged with aggravated assault on Thomas Barry, boatswain of the Bushmills, on Sunday morning, was sentenced to six months at hard labor.

An old Spaniard named Jesus Rodriguez was knocked down by a runaway on Columbia street this morning and had two ribs broken. Owing to his age fears are entertained for his recovery. He is at St. Mary's Hospital.

Heathcott beat Bell in the gentlemen's single handicap tennis match by three sets out of five.

A POPULAR WEDDING.

An Interesting and Auspicious Marriage at Nanaimo Duly Celebrated.

NANAIMO, Sept. 8.—St. Paul's church was the scene of a very pretty and interesting wedding last evening, when Mr. C. W. Durrant was united in wedlock to Miss L. Stannard. Long before the hour announced for the wedding, the church was completely packed, and many, not able to find room inside, were glad to stand at the door until the ceremony was over. The popularity of the young couple was evinced by the number present. Punctually at 8 o'clock the bride drove up to the door of the church, and was escorted to the altar on the arm of her father. Miss Edith and Miss Etta Stannard, sisters of the bride, carried her train, and they added quite a charm to the scene. The bride was adorned in a pretty dress of cream-colored silk, and her head was crowned with a wreath of orange blossoms, from which flowed gracefully over her shoulders the bridal veil to the end of the train. The two bridesmaids were also adorned in a manner very becoming to the occasion. The bride was met at the altar by the bridegroom, who was assisted through the ordeal by Mr. E. M. Yarwood, and this was a signal for a greeting song by the choir. Rev. Archdeacon Scriven performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. J. B. Good. The contract being signed, the organ, under the skilful fingers of Dr. Davies, pealed forth Mendelssohn's wedding march. The little Misses Praeger's and Wolfe preceeded the party and strewed flowers along their path and many were the wishes that flowers and sunshine would be strewn all the way through their path of life. The party then drove to the home of the bride's parents and as the young bride alighted they were completely showered with rice. At the wharf this morning a large party saw them off to Vancouver and gave them their blessing. Seldom if ever has so much interest been displayed in any wedding here, and it shows how much these young people were thought of. The presents were many and exceedingly beautiful.

The acquaintances of the family of the bride gave a dance in St. Paul's Institute in honor of the event and a glorious time was spent. The room was handsomely decorated with flags and lanterns, and an abundance of cake and fruit was dispensed by the ladies.

The excitement over the Sullivan-Corbett fight last night was intense in this city. Betting was brisk and lots of money changed hands after the 15th round. Each telegram received was read in front of the Windsor House, where hundreds of people eagerly listened to the result. Bets of $100 to $50 on Sullivan were numerous, but after the 5th round no new bets were made, and when it was announced Corbett had defeated the big fellow the crowd burst into prolonged applause.

About 30 people witnessed a wrestling match between J. L. Cotton and J. Rickfon, which took place back of J. Black's premises yesterday. The stakes were $10 a side, and Cotton being considerably heavier than his opponent had no difficulty in winning. The other man was outmatched.

Commandant Booth of the Salvation Army has issued a reply to the charges of ex-Brigadier Philpot. He shows that the properties disposed of for little value were not required by the Army. The self-denial fund was legitimately used, and Philpot's charges are entirely false. Booth says his policy was to reduce the expenses at headquarters. Outside officers have never been neglected, $12,000 having been spent on them in two years. Philpot is accused of duplicity and falsehood.

The directors of the company and the few remaining men endeavored to keep the cars moving, but could not handle the traffic.

All these rates include board. Yesterday's train had 250 men for the Algoma district. In all 3000 men will be sent from Ottawa this season and the cut this winter is expected to be a very heavy one.

The Borden Murder Trial.

TAUNTON, Mass., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Marshall and daughter will be most important witnesses for the defence if Lizzie Borden is ever brought to trial for the murder of her parents. She said that the morning of the murder she and her daughter drove down Third street shortly after 11 o'clock, and saw a villainous-looking man jump over Borden's back fence, hurry through Dr. Cagnon's yard, jump into a buggy that was waiting and drive away. Of course they paid no attention to it at the time, but half an hour later they drove through Second street and saw a crowd in front of the house and heard that murder had been committed. Before any suspicion had rested on Lizzie Borden, Mrs. Marshall had told friends about the man she had seen jump over the Borden fence. Mrs. Marshall is a woman of undoubted veracity and her daughter's word will have equal weight. She was asked to-night why she had not appeared at the preliminary hearing in the case, and her deep mourning together with the statement that she had just buried her husband was sufficient explanation of her ignorance of the course events had taken. She did not know how important her testimony would have been at the hearing. The police at Fall River were notified of Mrs. Marshall's evidence a few days ago, but they apparently ignored the clue which she gave them and intimated that it was from an unreliable source. Mrs. Marshall will, however, be able to sustain her reputation for truth if it is required. This is the most important clue outside the Borden house which has yet been found.

Rumored Financial Crisis.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Persistent rumors of a coming crisis in banking circles continue to attract attention to the International Conference. The impression prevails that serious trouble threatens several of the weaker banks connected closely with Indian finance, and there is little doubt among the banks that these institutions will be obliged shortly to declare their condition, and reorganize lest they should be tided over by an unexpected turn in affairs. The main trouble of the banks in question, is that the fall of silver has caused a depreciation of their securities, and their officials and stockholders are filing the newspapers with complaints of the unfortunate condition of India's currency. The Blackburn Chamber of Commerce has directed further attention to the silver question by a discussion of England's attitude towards the International Conference. The debates on the subject have been prolonged and exhaustive, as a strong minority leans towards monometallism. The sentiment of the chamber has now been declared in favor of England's participation in the conference, and by the resolution the hope was expressed that the conference would result in a more stable rate of exchange. A few of the speakers attributed the present depression in Lancashire to the increasing competition of manufacture. The majority, however, cling to the belief that bi-metallism will prove the desired panacea.

Sir John Thompson's Speech.

PETROLIA, Sept. 7.—Speaking to the East Lambton Conservative Association picnic yesterday Sir John Thompson said the Government proposed to stand by the old policy of Sir John Macdonald, who struck the key note of national prosperity 14 years ago, when he said Canadians must become producers or else be the servants to other people, and it was only now in 1892 that Hon. W. Laurier had realized the truth of that utterance. Referring to the canal tolls question, he said the Canadian Government in granting the rebates had violated no treaty, but acted strictly within its rights. However, for the sake of peace and good neighborhood, the Government was willing to discontinue the tolls at the end of the present season, and that it had gone so far in concession as honorable men or any honorable government could go. He spoke of the imposition of tolls at the "Soo" canal as a measure of wrath by the United States, during temporary irritation. It was to be hoped that consideration would lead the Americans to believe that Canada was not disposed to meet them in the spirit they had adopted against her. The Dominion Government declines to adopt retaliatory measures against the United States, although counselled to do so. Sir John Thompson touched lightly on the Manitoba School question, saying the greatest calamity which could befall a country would be to have political divisions of race and religion. He hoped such would never be the case, and when such matters were to be dealt with the people should be tolerant.

Got a Fine Advertisement.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—Owing to the American flag incident at the Queen's Theatre, "The White Squadron" was yesterday withdrawn from the boards and the theatre will be closed for the remainder of the week. General Knapp, United States Consul-General at Montreal, obtained a letter from Mr. Florence, the manager, acknowledging that the whole thing was arranged by him as an advertisement without any intention of causing trouble. This acknowledgment was sent to the United States Government. In reply a telegram from the Secretary of State was received enquiring into the incident. The consul-general then requested that the play should be withdrawn owing to the feeling caused by the incident, and this was agreed to. Mr. Florence has returned to the United States.

THE AGE OF DECEPTION IS FAST PASSING AWAY.

The age of deception and humbug is fast coming to an end. The men and women, who, a few years ago, were easily hoodwinked and deceived, are now wiser and, we believe, happier people. Literature has contributed to this increase of wisdom and prudence. The press has nobly done its part, and all willingly acknowledge this fact.

The time of deception was very marked as far as the patent medicine trade was concerned; and still we have in our midst worthless and useless remedies which promise to do anything and everything. These nostrums are made to sell; the foolish and simple buy them; the results are: increased suffering and waste of money.

Our Canadian people have had good reason to discard the great majority of worthless medicines that have been placed for sale in our country. The demand for an honest an unfailing preparation was great, especially for the cure of rheumatism, nervousness, broken-down constitution, sleeplessness and dyspepsia. To meet the wants of thousands, Paine's Celery Compound was introduced as the great healer and deliverer.

The results so far are beyond calculation; the amount of suffering relieved, and cures effected; is beyond computation. Paine's Celery Compound is hailed with delight and gladness in every locality as the true emancipator from disease. It is now the accepted household remedy with Canadians, rich and poor; and is daily adding new victories to its already long list of triumphs. It only requires to be tried in order to convince the most sceptical and unbelieving.

Youthful Evangelism.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 8. — Miss Fanny Edwards, the 14-year-old evangelist, has just returned from Crab Orchard and Somerset, where she has been conducting a series of meetings. The success of the meetings has been great. This is the young woman whose wonderful meetings made her name famous throughout Kentucky and Indiana. Crowds attend the meetings, and it is said that some of those who came to scoff remained to pray. Conversation follows the exhortations delivered by the girl. She is a mere child. Miss Edwards does not confine her services to any sect, but wherever there is a meeting, whether Baptist or Methodist or Presbyterian or any other, she is ready to lend her aid in the cause of Christianity.

The Feast of Nations.

Cobden believed that international peace is a branch of political economy; and that war is a hindrance to commerce, consuming without producing, expensive, wasteful, and unnecessary. He opposed it also on higher grounds. To him universal peace was not only a political doctrine, but also a moral sentiment and religious rule As a member of the Episcopal church he often partook of holy communion; but he thought that the holiest communion was the Feast of Nations, where the whole brotherhood of man sit in equal rank at the table of the Lord. And the table of the Lord is this round earth, where there is neither head nor foot; no highest place nor lowest place; and woe to the man who devours the share of his brother and drives him from the table.—Geo. Turnbull in American Journal of Politics.

Sunday Opening at the Fair.

ALBANY, N.Y., Sept. 8.—The women board of managers of the World's Fair held a three hours' session this afternoon. Fifteen members were present, and the reports made showed the general interest that is being taken. The surprise of the day came in the shape of a resolution by Mrs. Frederick P. Bellamay, in these words: "Resolved that the New York state board of women's managers request that the Columbian Exposition be opened on Sunday for the benefit of all classes." This was adopted without debate, Mrs. J. S. T. Strathanan alone voting in the negative.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Lengthy and Animated Discussion Upon the Rate of Taxation on Property.

View Street to be Relieved of its Disgrace—Peremptory Notice from the Government.

When the meeting was called to order by Mayor Beaven all of the aldermen except Mr. Munn were in their places, and he came in later, making it a full board.

AUDITOR'S REPORT.

The clerk read the report of Auditor Raymur, which is as follows:

EXPENDITURE.

Estimated expenditure per By-Law 163	26,591 66

Revised assessment roll, 1892, improvements @ ¾	18,887 23
	215,886 84
Deduct unpaid estimate @ 15%	32,383 02

Arrears to be collected	10,000 00
Total land improvement tax	$ 193,503 82
Revenue from other sources	160,675 75
	$ 354,179 57
Leaving amount to be provided, say	$16,000
Board of Health accounts received so far, aggregate	$35,000
Estimated total amount required to 30th September	$50,000

The Mayor announced that the discussion of Tuesday night, as to the fixing of the rate of taxation upon improvements was adjourned for the figures of the auditor. He suggested that the council go into committee of the whole for the further consideration of the matter. This was agreed to.

After a short discussion it was moved that the rate be fixed at one half of one per cent., and then at one and one-half per cent. The former was voted down, and after considerable discussion a motion to make it one per cent. was lost. The vote was:

Ayes—Humber, Styles, Baker and Bragg.

Nays—Hunter, Lovell, Munn, Hall and McKillican.

Ald. Bragg and Styles were anxious to keep the rate down very low, but Ald. Munn and McKillican could not see how that could be done. The Mayor expressed the hope in answer to a question that the rate imposed upon improvements would not exceed three-forths of one per cent. This rate with one-sixth off would make five-eighths. He favored making up the amount required to pay the Board of Health bills from other sources.

During the discussion Ald. Lovell deplored the situation in which the board found itself and condemned those who used their influence against the by-laws at the recent election.

This brought Ald. Baker to his feet to deny that he opposed the health by-law.

Ald. Hunter chided the council for always urging its belief in favor of removing tax on improvements and not doing anything. He said it was a sort of hobby, but admitted that he favored it. He advised Ald. Baker that it was against the statute for any man to disclose his vote. He saw no course but to vote the full amount.

Nearly an hour's see-sawing followed, the mayor finally suggesting a compromise. The vote on the 1½ per cent. was taken, and the mayor voted with the four, making it a tie, and defeating it, explaining at the same time that this was the first division upon which his vote made any difference.

Ald. Munn, seconded by Ald. Bragg, moved 1¼ and it was lost. One and three-eighths was lost. No agreement seemed possible. One and one-eighth was voted down. A motion to have the committee rise and report progress was lost, five to four as usual.

It was a clear case of deadlock. Ald. McKillican moved 1½ again, but it was held that the same motion had already been put. Ald. Lovell then moved 1.48 per cent.

These figures were opposed because with the one-sixth off they would have hard fractions to deal with.

One and three-eighths was finally agreed on. Ald. Bragg increasing the strength of the five who stood together, making it six. This vote was taken at just 10:30.

Committee rose and reported the by-law complete with amendments. The report was adopted and the by-law was passed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Samuel Collier, president of the Western Washington Industrial Exhibition being held at Tacoma, inviting the mayor and council to attend on September 17th, which is British Columbia day. Received and accepted with thanks.

From Father Van Nevel, saying that he had written Ald. Humber urging the removal of houses of ill fame from the vicinity of the church and school on View street, but that no action had been taken. He requested on behalf of Bishop Lemmens and the Catholic clergy and laity of the city that the neighborhood be so dealt with.

Ald. Humber said he had acted. He had seen that perfect order was preserved. He did not know where they were to drive them to.

Ald. Hall wanted the women stopped from driving about the city in carriages.

Ald Styles moved to refer to the police committee and superintendent with power to act, and the Mayor suggested that the law be enforced.

Ald. Lovell said the council could not order raids on the mere suspicion that the houses were disorderly. He said proof was required of the character of the house. The law was not clear enough.

The motion carried and the law will be enforced. This means that View street and the Catholic property will be free from the blight now on it.

"W.C.B.," a resident of View street, wrote a long letter to the council protesting against the occupation of the street by people of ill repute. It took the same course as that of Father Van Nevel.

The report of Chief Engineer Deasy for August was received and filed. Ald. Hunter said no attention had been paid to Victoria West in distributing hydrants. Ald. Munn said that only a few streets in Victoria West admitted of the placing of hydrants.

The secretary of the Board of Trade suggesting that the council purchase a suitable piece of plate for the steamer Victoria. Referred to the finance committee to report.

Another protest against the scavengers was read. It complained that they went about the streets with wagons that gave forth a terrible stench. Complaint was made at the place of dumping. Received and referred to the sanitary committee with power to act.

Ald. Hunter said a wharf for garbage dumping would have to be built.

Ald. Bragg said that he, too, agreed with Ald Hunter.

The mayor then announced that the discussion of the surface drainage by-law had been adjourned.

NOTICE OF MOTION.

His worship recommended the introduction of a by-law which he had prepared, making a urther appropriation of revenue for board of health purposes.

The council then adjourned shortly before midnight.

The Modern Tooth.

Fresh from his recent revelations as to the inevitable results of higher education on the woman of the future, Sir James Crichton Browne, who presided recently over a meeting of the British dental Association, has felt it his painful duty to call attention to the lamentable condition of the tooth of the present. The picture he draws is truly desolating, and it is all the more so in that it is founded on the relentless basis of actual investigation. Out of 1861 children under 12 recently examined the proportion of those blessed with normal or perfect teeth in need of neither extraction nor filling was only one in eighteen. Even more alarming are the dental statistics of Leeds, where 90 per cent. of the teeth of the population are bad. Furthermore, Sir James stated that no fewer than ten million of artificial teeth are used in England annually. Of the three causes Sir James Crichton Browne attributed the present carious condition of the human tooth—soft food, high pressure, and vitiated atmosphere—the first, at least, is by no means an inevitable condition of latter-day life.—London Globe.

VICTORIA'S EXHIBITION.

A contemporary says that it rests with the farmers, mechanics and manufacturers to make the Victoria exhibition a success. The responsibility of the tramway company is equally great. The farmers, mechanics and manufacturers may, and we believe will, send so many exhibits that the success of the show, as gauged by quantity and quality, will be greater than last year. But there is a financial success which the directors think equally desirable, and the tramway company, by being ready to carry the people to the grounds, can remove all doubts in regard to that phase of the question. We hope President Higgins and the other active officials of the company will put forth every possible effort and have the tramway ready for the occasion. If they fail, it will be bad for themselves and bad for the society.

THE RATE OF TAXATION.

The ratepayers have now the satisfaction of knowing the rate at which they will be taxed for this year. It may be confidently predicted that there will be a large amount of grumbling, and it may also be fully expected that some of those who helped to bring about the increase of the rate by voting against the Board of Health by-law will complain most loudly. It would have been very much better if the extra expenditure entailed by the smallpox outbreak had been met by the proposed loan, but, since that was decided against, there was left only a choice between extra taxes and reducing the other civic expenditures. As a matter of fact, the Council has made partial use of both expedients, but even now there will be many fault-finders, and, as already said, chief among them will be those who helped to secure the rejection of the by-law. The rate of 1½ per cent. on real property and 1⅜ on improvements is certainly not a very pleasant thing to face. The citizens must necessarily look for consolation in the hope that the increase will be only temporary, and that next year will bring a better state of things. They will not fail to notice in this connection the fact that the Premier cannot forego the pleasure of a further exhibition of czarism, inasmuch as he has given notice that he will authorize the sheriff to levy a special rate for the purpose of paying those Ross Bay bills. They will remember that he was very earnest in advising them to reject the by-law to raise money for Board of Health purposes, and will no doubt be able to appreciate his warm interest in their financial welfare.

THE OTTAWA GOVERNMENT.

It is not much more than a year since the death of Sir John Macdonald threw on the Conservative party the necessity of choosing a new leader, a task of no small magnitude in the circumstances which surrounded it. The selection of Sir John Thompson would have appeared the most natural step at that time, as it does now, when Premier Abbott is obliged by ill health to leave the post. Sir John Thompson, aware of the fact that a certain section of the party objected to him on account of his religion, preferred to waive his claim to promotion, and the difficulties of the situation were for the time overcome by the compromise which placed Sir John Abbott in the leader's seat. But the same old difficulty now re-appears, for instead of the advancement of the Minister of Justice being taken as a matter of course, a considerable number of the Ontario Conservatives declare for Sir Charles Tupper as Premier Abbott's successor. They are afraid that the party would lose ground in Ontario with Sir John Thompson at its head. It is worth while noticing that the Ottawa Citizen, one of the most prominent Conservative organs, which last year vigorously demanded that Tupper be chosen leader, is now as strongly supporting Thompson for the position. Its views are most decidedly changed, but from what cause the change arises does not so far appear. Taking all the circumstances into account, the belief seems warranted that those who nominate Sir Charles now will succeed no better than the Citizen did last year, and that when Sir John Abbott drops out, as he apparently must in a very short time, the Minister of Justice will take his place. History is also repeating itself in a small way in the agitation among a number of the Ontario Conservatives to secure Mr. Meredith's entrance into the Cabinet, for it will be remembered that this was strongly insisted on at the time of the late reconstruction. The agitation will natural increase in force if Thompson becomes Premier, since Mr. Meredith's acceptance of a portfolio would be regarded by many as a necessary counterpoise to Sir John's occupation of the chief place. Quebec opposition to this move will have to be reckoned with, and whether it will be as effective as it was last year must be left to time to determine. The proposal to induce an exchange of places between Lieutenant-Governor Angers and Sir Adolphe Caron, and the scheme of supplanting Mr. Carling by a Quebec English representative, are side issues which for the present do not claim much importance.

There is one conclusion evident from all the cabinet alterations and discussions—that the Conservative party, notwithstanding its phenomenal success, is not so strong and so well consolidated as it was under Sir John Macdonald's leadership. The influences which even then made towards disintegration have now more scope, and their effect will be felt ere long. It is not to be expected that the new Sir John will be able to exercise the old one's unchallenged power of suppressing individual opinions and aspirations, or to keep so well in restraint the factional hostility which undoubtedly pervades at least a portion of the party. Sir John Macdonald was endowed with a faculty of devising new schemes and combinations to smooth over difficulties which Sir John Thompson does not possess; and though the latter is in reality the abler man, in a purely intellectual sense, no one of his followers would expect him to show the same powers of stratagem and finesse. No matter what plan of Cabinet reconstruction he may choose to adopt, there will be a considerable percentage of his party distrustful and ready to revolt, a state of affairs which cannot be regarded as hopeful by even the most enthusiastic Conservative.

Apart from complications inside the party, the situation does not seem to promise well for the Conservatives. The reign of the National Policy, for which so much was predicted, and for which so much is claimed even now by some hidebound partizans, is discredited in the eyes of all unprejudiced observers. Many who thoroughly believed in it at its inception have been undeceived by its results. The dissatisfaction of the people with the existing order of things brought even Sir John Macdonald to the verge of defeat last year, and will be likely to prove more dangerous to a weaker successor. But Sir John Thompson has nothing new to offer. At the Conservative demonstration at Petrolia the other day he could do nothing but promise to continue the policy adopted in 1878, of which the country has shown itself tired, and which the census has very graphically demonstrated to be a failure. It is plain enough that nothing new in the way of a policy is to be expected from a Government with Sir John Thompson at its head. The question is, will the people of Canada choose to put up with the ills which now bear upon them, or will their discontent break out even more dangerously than it did in 1891? The latter seems to be the more probable contingency, and its arrival will find the Conservative Government worse prepared to meet it than it was last year.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

James J. Corbett, alias Pompadour Jim, may now consider himself King of California.

It doesn't matter much now who becomes President, since the pugilistic championship has been decided.

If we are to credit Ottawa dispatches, the Dominion Government has taken up the Russian Behring Sea outrage in earnest. A vigorous protest, it is said, has been cabled to London, asking that prompt redress be demanded from Russia. It would be rash, however, to expect any very prompt action in response.

John L. at the end of 23 rounds came to the conclusion that he had "met a younger man," and that he had "stayed once too long." He may console himself with the reflection that this is the common fate of "champs." Men engaged in less reprehensible athletic pursuits than that of the boxing ring frequently "stay once too long." They also find sometimes that the free use of whiskey does not improve the physique.

In a speech at the Ontario Farmers' Institute, Principal Mills, of the Agriculture College, advised the farmers of Ontario to turn their attention to other products than wheat. The yield of that cereal in the province was small, the crop was uncertain, the price was low, and in other places it could be grown so much more successfully that Ontario wheat must find itself supplanted in the market. The raising of coarse grains, the rearing of live stock and the manufacture of butter and cheese would be more profitable. It would appear that this year's experience should impress the wisdom of Prof. James' opinions on the Ontario farmers. They had this season under crop 250,000 acres more than last year, and, all the cereals except oats have turned out rather poorly. Both spring and fall wheat have suffered from rust, due to the warm, moist weather in July. Barley ripened too fast, and was discolored by the rains. Peas were a good crop in some parts of the province and poor in others, and the same is said of potatoes. Hay seems to have been one of the most successful crops of late years, and its abundance, along with the good yield of oats, will be likely to turn the farmers more than ever to the live stock and dairy branches of husbandry. While the Ontario farmers have had so unsatisfactory an experience with wheat, those of Manitoba appear to have been favored with another good year, the yield of that province being expected to reach at least 18,000,000 bushels, not much of which is frosted. Two good seasons in succession should make the farmers of the Prairie Province feel extremely thankful.

KISSING IN PUBLIC.

Men Who Are Not Properly Broken in Always Blush to do it.

They were certainly a very likely and respectable looking young couple and they were as loving and tender towards each other as though they were not yet married. The probabilities are that in the early part of July, or, at the greatest, not longer than the middle of June, they were made one and inseparable, and on this particular occasion they were to be parted for a few brief hours for the first time since their marriage day.

At any rate, they were at the West Shore station very early in the morning, says the Utica (N. Y.) Observer, and the appearances indicated that the young wife was going home to spend the day. "You surely will not miss the train to-night?" he inquired for the fifth or sixth time. "O, no," she assured him, solemnly and impressively. "If you should, I would just about go wild," he declared. "So should I," she replied. "Well, then, you must be sure and not miss it" he repeated, with a scared look in his eyes. "No, I certainly must not," she said, with an earnestness that carried conviction with it.

Then she continued: "You will find me a real nice seat, won't you dear?" "Yes, I will get you a seat all by yourself," he said, with an assurance that meant that if he shouldn't happen to find a vacant seat in the car somebody would be thrown out of the window to make room for his birdling. "And you will not be afraid to kiss me goodbye right in the coach, will you?" she enquired, looking tenderly into his eyes.

"Oh, I guess I'd better kiss you here before we get into the car. People always stare so," he answered evasively. "But I like to have you kiss me the last thing," she pouted, "and I don't care how much people stare, do you?" "N-no," he replied. "But I thought it might be unpleasant for you. I guess I'd better kiss you in the depot before we go out."

"Well, if you are ashamed of me, probably you had," she flashed. "I didn't think you would be ashamed of me so soon," and her lips trembled.

"I am not ashamed of you, my dear," he began, "only I thought that there might be some coarse persons in the car that would make fun of us if I should kiss you good-bye there."

"I'd like to know what that is but being ashamed of me," she exclaimed. "I just don't care a snap whether you ever kiss me at all or not. I think you have no business to treat me so, and I don't care if I do miss the train to-night."

"Settle it! Settle it!" shouted a voice over in the other corner, where a drowsy drummer was stretched out with his head on his grip and his legs over the end of the seat. "Kiss her in both places or else let me!" And the young people walked out on the platform and around the other side of the building.

When the train came, fifteen minutes later, he walked right into the car and found her a seat, and then bent down and gave her a smack that sounded like the blowing out of a cylinder head. As the train moved away the drummer turned round and said: "I congratulate you young lady, you've got him well broke."

Stage-Struck.

Four hours a day is the average of time devoted by Miss Ellen Terry to correspondence, and she has confided to Mrs. G. A. Sala that numerous letters she receives include perpetual applications from would-be-actresses for help and advice. Miss Terry's advice always is "Don't." "Madness," she says, "lies that way. The 'market' is overcrowded; but still they come. Why is it? Simply because it is such a delightful life; such an attractive life. I remember," the famous actress continued, "telling one lady that it was no use to make the attempt unless she was possessed of extreme beauty (I was thinking of Mrs. Langtry) or genius. She replied that my advice only made her the more resolved, because she had both."

IN THE SHERIFF'S HANDS.

The City Called Upon to Pay Expenses Incurred by the Board of Health.

The Provincial Government Want Their Money and Threaten to Take Action.

The Provincial Government seems to be in greater haste to collect a paltry $4031.25 paid out for urgent Board of Health bills, which it itself helped to incur, than many business men about town doing business on smaller capital, who are also creditors of the city for the same kind of indebtedness.

The preliminary steps under the rules of the government which are necessary before instructing the sheriff to make a levy on the real property on the assessment roll for the collection of the amount paid out which is mentioned above, have been taken. This consists of notifying the Mayor by registered letter over the signature of the auditor and Minister of Finance; and under the same rules it is held that at the end of fourteen days from yesterday, the government can take action. That is to say that in two weeks the Government will be in a position to order the sheriff to forcibly collect what is claimed.

The letter mentioned was received yesterday afternoon by Mayor Beaven, but no action has been taken by the city. At the council meeting, while the council was considering the fixing of the rate on improvements, one alderman wanted it low and expressed the vain hope that the Government would come forward with more money and help the city out. Mayor Beaven then stated that that was out of the question, as the Government had already taken the preliminary steps toward collecting by a levy by the sheriff what was already due. That settled it and the matter was dropped.

A TIMES man saw the Mayor at the City Hall this morning. He simply said that the letter had been received and was in his possession. Nothing had been done about it as yet, and he declined to say what he thought would be done.

The Alberni Farmers.

Mr. J. R. Anderson, one of the World's Fair Commissioners, visited 80 farmers in Alberni district, all of whom were more or less busily engaged in clearing their land. There are at present little or no crops, though on some of the cleared patches excellent fruit and vegetables have been grown. The soil is good, but the land is heavily timbered, more so than at Comox. Mr. Anderson says that the settlers are taking the keenest interest in the proposed Canada Western Railway, and are anxious to hear the latest developments.

The Y.M.C.A. Excursion.

The committee of the Y.M.C.A. are arranging for their excursion to Tacoma on Saturday, September 24th. There is to be a convention of all the associations of the North Pacific coast on that date, and at the same period the Tacoma exposition will be in full force. The Ladies' Auxiliary League are taking up the matter with enthusiasm, and it is expected that a large number will go over on the occasion.

The Malaspina Quarry.

The Malaspina quarry is situated on the straits of that name, on the mainland of British Columbia. The quarry contains a remarkably fine bed of red granite, equal in every way to the famous Scotch article. The stone runs right down to deep water, the face of it being at least ¾ mile in length. It will be easily worked, as it runs back from 10 to 40 chains on a gradual incline. No doubt later on a good market will be found for such an excellent material.

Yon Yonson To-night.

Gus Heege, the Swedish comedian, will be seen this evening at the Victoria in his new play, "Yon Yonson," for the first time here. The press notices of this production are favorable, and there can be no doubt that those who attend the performance will be pleased. Mr. Heege is the originator of the character and wrote the play himself. It met with great success throughout the Northwestern States, where the Scandinavian element is very strong.

Grand Rally of the Clansmen.

A meeting of Scotchmen will be held this evening in Sir William Wallace Hall at 8 o'clock promptly. The purpose of the meeting is to get more signatures to the Highland battalion petition, and take steps towards sending it off at once to Ottawa. All "John Tamson's bairns" in Victoria are solemnly and earnestly called upon to foregather at the aforementioned place and hour.

Stole a Carriage.

A man named Morrison was arrested this afternoon for stealing a baby's carriage from a residence in James Bay, about two months ago. Morrison has been working at Sidney and only came to town this morning. He was immediately arrested by Officer Smith and will be given a hearing to-morrow morning.

Not in Dock Yet.

The Warspite did not go into the dock to-day as had been expected, and it is now understood that she will not go in until the 8th of October, when the tides will be again at their highest. Superintendent of Construction M. J. Humphreys arrived from England last evening to oversee the repairs.

Off to Chicago.

A large shipment of Indian curios was made to Chicago last night. The goods are being sent forward by Kirschberg & Landsberg, and went away on the City of Kingston. They were carefully packed to avoid damage to them. They are not for the World's Fair.

A New Warrant.

Say They Are Lotteries.

The police have received complaints from citizens in regard to the Co-operative Supply Companies and Suit and Watch Clubs that have been running for several months. The complainants claim that the clubs are nothing less than lotteries. The police will probably make a test case.

Two Important Transactions.

The council did two very important things last night. The rate of taxation on property was fixed at one and three-eighths per cent. It was also decided to clear View street of the houses of ill repute which exist there and have been complained of so bitterly by the respectable portion of the inhabitants.

Celebrating Corbett's Victory.

Two Chinamen last evening amused their countrymen in Chinatown by having an encounter in the middle of the street. If the generators were here the car service could be resumed on Monday next. Everything is in readiness to begin when the generators get here. Great progress is being made at the power house.

Booked for Larceny.

John Marshall, who was charged with the theft of a baby carriage about which so much was said a few weeks ago, was arrested on Yates street this afternoon by policeman Smith after a hard fight. Marshall was driving in a buggy and when stopped and placed under arrest showed fight. He struck at the constable, who grappled with him. The policeman managed to handcuff him. At the station he was booked for larceny.

Mr. Carmichael and Mr. Moore are old school mates, but the latter did not know that Mr. Carmichael was here for some time after his arrival.

A Pretty Wedding.

St. Saviour's church was crowded last evening when Rev. W. D. Barber, the rector, united in marriage Herbert James Cave and Mary Stewart Weller. The church had been very prettily decorated by the ladies of the congregation, and the choir assisted by rendering special psalms and anthems. Miss N. Harris supported the bride and Mr. W. Cave acted as best man. After the ceremony about 50 guests assembled at the residence of the bride's parents, where a very pleasant time was spent.

The matron reported the suspension of one of the male nurses on account of drunkenness. The contract for supplying bread was awarded to G. T. Demaine at 2¾ cents per pound; milk, Evans & Hobbs at 30 cents a gallon; and vegetables at one cent per pound. The accounts for July were submitted by Treasurer Chudley. The expenditure was $5,279.25, of which the city would refund $4300. The salaries for the month amounted to $357.50, being $200 less than the previous month. On the 6th of August the city owed the Hospital $5500, which the Mayor promised to pay as soon as possible.

THE MISCHIEF RETURNS.

She Brings a Valuable Lot of Skins from the West Coast—An Indian Potlach.

The steam schooner Mischief returned to-day from a two weeks' trading trip up the west coast. The anxiety felt on her account was uncalled for, as she was simply delayed on business matters. The trip was a very successful one, Captain Pettit getting rid of all his provisions, and returning with a valuable cargo of furs. Among the furs were six handsome sea otter skins, which were obtained from the Indians at Kyoquot. The skins are very large and exceptionally good ones. A number of bear, martin, mink, beaver, land otter and other skins were also brought back.

The weather up the coast was fine, and the trip was a very pleasant one. There were about 1000 Indians at Nootka, holding a big potlach. They were having a real lively time.

The passengers down were Father Heymen, of Clayoquot and Messrs. Wilkinson and Cline.

BURNABY MUNICIPALITY.

Vancouver and New Westminster Delegation Petition the Government to Incorporate Burnaby.

Messrs. J. C. Armstrong, John Wiggins and Alexander Philip from New Westminster, and Messrs. E. Mahon and J. Balfour Ker, from Vancouver, as delegates representing owners of property in the district between the two cities, had an interview this morning with the Premier and handed him a petition to have the District incorporated as a municipality under the name of "Burnaby." The Premier expressed his cordial sympathy with the proposal and promised that the whole matter would receive full and immediate consideration. The delegates thanked the Premier for his kind reception.

The petition has been signed by a large proportion of those entitled to under the statutes, and it is understood that there is not a dissentient voice. A member of the delegation said that when incorporated the new municipality will be a most important one, and if the new council set vigorously to work with the construction of roads and other necessary public works within the bounds the owners of the land will be able to cultivate it, and much good will result to both the adjoining cities. There are 31,505 acres of land in the proposed municipality, in the centre of which is Burnaby lake. At present there are 345 owners of land, out of which number 211 have signed the petition. Ninety-one male settlers with their families compose the inhabitants.

Getting Uneasy.

Every man that arrives from the west coast now is asked "Did you see anything outside?" The questions come from the sealers who are beginning to feel rather anxious about their schooners and crews. As one sealer said to-day: "We do not know but that a couple of hundred men are now in a starving condition on the coast of Siberia." Everyone thinks a steamer should be sent over to look after any who should happen to be in such a position.

IBSEN'S WOOING.

How the Queer Norwegian Dramatist Won His Wife.

From the London Daily News.]

When he fell in love with the beautiful daughter of Pastor Thoresen, how to make known the fact troubled him for weeks. At last he resolved to write to her. He would come and fetch his answer the same afternoon at 5. Did the young lady accept him she would be at home, otherwise not.

At 5 o'clock he presented himself, and the maid asked him to go into the best room. He was very hopeful and glad to have time to collect himself before he met the lady. But when he had waited half an hour awful doubts began to assail him. After an hour had passed he imagined the letter had not reached the young lady. Some fatal mistake was making a fool of him. Still he waited on. After two hours he began to be ashamed of himself. She would learn that he had sat two hours in that deserted house and would laugh at him.

At last he jumped up in a rage and ran to the door. He was opening it when a loud peal of laughter arrested him. He turned and saw the fair head of his adored emerge from under the sofa. Her mouth was laughing, but her eyes were filled with tears. "Oh, you dear, good fellow, to wait all this while!" she said. "I wanted to see how many minutes a lover's patience lasts. How hard the floor is! Now help me to get out and we will talk." In less than a week the marriage was arranged.

Mr. Carleton, Aged 88, Was Ready.

Thirteen years ago Mr. Carleton bought in Buffalo the pine lumber for his coffin, kept it seasoning in his own house for three years, and then brought it to Warsaw for the coffin to be made immediately. It was 7 feet 4 inches long, as he wished it to be "roomy and comfortable," painted white inside and black outside. It was Mr. Carleton's intention to take the coffin home, in order that it might be "handy" when required, but his wife demurring to this, it remained in Lawrence's undertaking rooms during the last ten years. The remains of the eccentric man were placed in it on Tuesday.

At the same time the order was given for the coffin, in October, 1882, Mr. Carleton also contracted with Hugh Curry to dig for him, when required, a wide, deep grave, to be laid up with brick; and with John Hanigan for a tombstone in the shape of a minfature house with windows, doors and chimneys, and over the front door the words, "Home, Sweet Home." The monument was constructed and has ever since been in Mr. Hanigan's marble warehouse. Monday Mr. Curry went to Carleton Hill, in Middlebury, and made the grave according to contract and Mr. Hanigan will soon place the monument at its head.—Cor. Buffalo Courier.

THE HIGHLAND REGIMENT.

A Deputation of Leading Scots Lay the Matter Before the Military Authorities.

The Proposition is Considered Liberal and Fair and Will Have Prompt Attention.

The deputation having in charge the petition to Hon. McKenzie Bowell, Minister of Militia and Major General Herbert, for the establishment of a Highland rifle volunteer regiment in Victoria waited upon these gentlemen at their rooms in the Driard Hotel yesterday afternoon and presented the petition. The deputation was headed by Major Wilson and Captain John Irving, and was composed as follows: Messrs. Colonel Prior, M.P., John White, ex-M.P., J. B. Gordon, R. H. Jameson, (in Highland costume), A. Maxwell Muir, J. J. Smith, J. H. Falconer, F. J. Sinclair, Murdo McDonald, James Burns, A. McPherson, John R. Mackie, (in Highland costume, Queen's Own Rifles, Edinburgh), John Mortimer. The following gentlemen were unavoidably absent: Dr. Watt, Dr. Duncan, R. P. Rithet, ex-Mayor Grant and others.

The party was introduced to Minister Bowell by Lt.-Col. Prior, M.P., in a few appropriate words, stating the objects of the deputation, and Major Wilson, formerly of the 42nd Royal Highlanders, the celebrated Black Watch, stepped forward and said that the young men of this city were strongly animated with loyalty towards their Queen and country and were ready to serve them as volunteers. He then gave in detail the plan for the formation of a corps of Highlanders here. He hoped the Government would give the scheme encouragement, as the members of the proposed corps would supply their own uniforms, merely asking arms and accoutrements from the Government.

Hon. Mr. Bowell replied that the proposition was a very fair and liberal one. He was glad to see this spirit of loyalty manifested so strongly, and felt it his duto to encourage the same. The Dominion finances were not, however, always in such a state as to warrant expenditures for things they would like to have. The money question was the main one and would have to be carefully considered first. He would like the proposers to reduce their request to writing and send it to Ottawa where he would see that it received its full share of attention. He also promised to telegraph his decision on the matter after he returned so as to lose no time.

A general discussion then followed, in which several of the deputation took part, Messrs. J. Falconer, Jamieson, Irving, Mortimer and Maxwell Muir taking a leading part. Major Wilson reiterated that the government would be put only to the expense of arms and accoutrements, the more important item of uniform being borne by the members of the corps.

Major General Herbert then, in response to a request from Hon. Mr. Bowell, expressed his opinions. He drew attention to the limited amount of money at the disposal of the department and thought that under existing circumstances in this part of the country artillery was the preferable arm. The reason for this was that the chief danger to the city was from stray cruisers, which might slip in here unobserved and begin a bombardment of Victoria without landing one man. The only means of replying to such an attack would be by artillery. He felt confident that the Victoria Highlanders would behave in action with the inflexible gallantry which had distinguished Highlanders from time immemorial, but what would bravery amount to in face of heavy artillery? Unless they had heavy guns to reply to and repel the attacks of cruisers the city would not be efficiently protected. At the same time he had not the slightest objection to seeing a Highland regiment formed here.

Hon. Mr. Bowell said that if permission were granted to establish the corps it would be in any case only a provisional permission at least in the first instance, as it was necessary that certificates of proficiency should be held from the School of Infantry at Kingston, there being no school of the kind in this part of the Dominion. They could not get their training at C battery.

Captain John Irving said that in his opinion it was only a matter of fairness, considering the amount of revenue received by the Dominion from this province, that it ought to have such a school here.

Hon. Mr. Bowell thought it would be as cheap for the Government to pay the officers' expenses to the eastern schools, as to establish a school here.

Mr. John White, ex-M.P., then spoke strongly in favor of the formation of a Highland regiment here, impressing upon Mr. Bowell the great need of such an organization. He admired the Scots for their loyalty to their Queen and country.

General Herbert said in reply that he was in thorough sympathy with the proposal and with what Mr. White had said. He had a good deal of Celtic blood in his own veins, and no one, having seen as he had the magnificent charge of the Highland brigade upon the deadly entrenchments of Tel-el-Kebir on the 13th of September, could doubt for a moment the courage of the Scottish race.

Col. Prior was of opinion that the establishing of a Highland corps here would do the artillery a great deal of good by creating a spirit of friendly rivalry.

Mr. J. Falconer stated that the reason why a Highland battalion was asked for here was the popularity of these corps in Toronto and Montreal among the young men. Over 200 eligible young men all over 20 years of age had signed the list since Friday. Among them were seven pipers, four drummers and four buglers; all were ready to act at any moment. On account of the strong annexationist feeling on this island he thought these aspirations of loyalty should be welcome to the militia department and Dominion Government.

Mr. R. Jamieson said many of the signers were old soldiers, he himself having served the Queen for years.

The deputation retired highly satisfied with the interview and they will take the most vigorous steps to forward the necessary papers to Ottawa without delay.

A meeting of all interested is called for this evening at 8 o'clock in Sir William Wallace hall to draw up the papers and receive further signatures. Every Scotchman in the city is invited to lend his aid to the scheme by being present and putting down his name.

HUNTING THE TIGER.

The Adventure of a Party of Russian Hunters in Turkestan.

At the station of Ilusk, 72 versts from Vernoe, in the province of Semiretch (Turkestan), the staff of the Seventh Line Battalion of the Western Siberian Corps was in garrison, together with the second company, during the winter months. Already in the spring of last year a huge tiger had shown himself in the neighborhood of the station, and caused great damage to the Cossacks and Kirghiz of the surrounding villages. Having only shot or flintlock guns, they naturally did not venture to give chase to such a foe, but in the autumn notified his presence to the Okhotnuchaya Commanda of the battalion, which made reconnaissances round the station, but did not come across the tiger, who, as subsequent events showed, had betaken himself further up the banks of the River Ili. The number of his tracks, however, in all directions proved that he had visited the place. The autumn being very dry, and it being impossible for him to find food in the rushes, he was compelled to make a descent upon the station itself and carried off a horse. The Cossacks remarked:—"That tiger is seeking his death," but nevertheless they dared not risk to follow him up.

On January 25, this year, at dawn, a Kirghiz shepherd was feeding his flock on a little island on the Klekelenki, an affluent of the Ili, a mile distant from the station. The tiger, coming out from the rushes, which grow very thickly there, seized one of the cows. The Khirghiz, terrified at his unexpected visitor, uttered a shriek and took to his heels, whereupon the tiger left the cow and leaped upon the man, whom he held under his paws and began to devour. The other shepherds, seeing the loss of their comrade, rushed off to the station to warn the Cossack hunters of what had happened. As soon as they received news of the appearance of the tiger the Cossacks informed the commandant of the the company, who proposed to his subaltern to go in pursuit and take the four best shots with him. Eleven men of the company were selected, and the captain set out for the island with this command and two Cossack and Kirghiz hunters with two dogs. The men had their rifles and rounds of ammunition, and the officer's double-barrels loaded with slugs. Six Cossack hunters had already started earlier with guns and knives. When they reached the island they crossed, landing on the south side.

The island is about 300 sachines long by 100 broad (a sachine is seven English feet), almost entirely overgrown with high rushes. On the north bank there is a big clearing and two little hillocks, not far from the water's edge. Having taken up a good position, the military hunters began to fire into the rushes in the hope of driving out the tiger, who, however, refused to budge. Thereupon one of the Cossacks offered to go to the southeast corner of the Island and set fire to the rushes. Separating himself from his comrades, the bold fellow began his task; but the tiger, being startled by the flames, rushed out of the swamp, caught the Cossack, and again disappeared in the rushes to "play" with him. The "play," according to the soldier, consisted in the tiger rolling on his back and tossing the Cossack from one paw to the other. Finally incommoded by the flames he came out, and the others fired at him several shots without results. The "play" proved dear to the venturesome Cossack. The tiger had mangled his left shoulder, arm and cheek, and it was only thanks to the stiff brim of his forage cap that his skull was not smashed. Furthermore, his left shoulder was dislocated, and his ribs were lacerated by the tiger's claws. Under the circumstances the Cossacks decided not to fire again for fear of shooting their comrade, and it is difficult to understand why the tiger did not finish him off. It was afterward found that the man had twenty wounds.

The Cossacks, seeing that there was considerable risk in their continuing the hunt, crossed over to the other shore and waited for the arrival of the military. Meanwhile the "commada" had been waiting for boats, as the captain would not allow his men to pass by the ford. When the boats came up they all landed on the east side of the island and crossed to the hillocks on the north end. The whole distance from the rushes to the waters edge was between 30 and 40 sachines. From the hillocks the soldiers got nearer the rushes, and the captain ordered his men to keep in groups of two or three, a few paces apart, and to advance slowly with loaded rifles. When they had got up to within 15 sachines of the rushes they halted to wait for the tiger. Several of the privates volunteered to go in and drive him out, but the captain absolutely refused, saying in the rushes the tiger was at home, and would only kill them all, one after the other. Ten minutes of breathless excitement passed. Suddenly the dogs, scenting the tiger, began to give tongue, both pointing to the same spot. The captain thereupon ordered the men on the left flank to fire a volley, which was followed by a terrific roar, echoing round the whole island. The wounded tiger came out of the rushes, crouching on his muscular limbs, leapt into the open with another tremendous roar, and found himself surrounded. A general saevo from the rifles wounded him again and maddened him still more

The tiger had miscalculated his spring, and landed in front of the captain and his corporal. The captain let fly both barrels point blank and jumped to the right. The infuriated beast then threw himself on the corporal, who thrust his bayonet into his chest from his own shoulder. The tiger seized the rifle with his teeth. At this critical moment it only remained to use the bayonet, and the privates charged at the word of command. Then began a desperate hand-to-hand combat. The only sounds to be heard were the sullen growls of the wounded tiger and the muffled stabs of the bayonets in his body. Having ground the stock of the rifle to matchwood, he threw away the barrels, and fastening his teeth in the left arm of the corporal threw him down, as well as a man standing beside him. One of the privates hereupon stuck him in the throat, and the others literally lifted him on their bayonets. Taking advantage of this the corporal rolled away from under the tiger, and the other man, who had also been knocked down, slipped aside, and gave the beast the bayonet in the side. The tiger was now staggering under the bayonet thrusts, and the blood was pouring from him in streams. As an instance of his strength, it may be noted that when two of the soldiers planted their bayonets under his forearms, the beast in his rage struck so violently with his forepaws on the rifles that he knocked them out of the grasp of the men, and broke the bayonet of one short off in his body.

The tiger measured four archines, and weighed 15 puds (equal to 9 feet 4 inches, and 541 pounds). The corporal had 16 wounds, but none dangerous. Seven bullets were found in the body of the tiger, shapeless, as they are picked up usually at the targets.—From a St. Petersburg Paper.

"Golden Medical Discovery" cures those diseases which come from blood impurities—scrofula and skin diseases, sores and swellings.

But does it? It's put up by the thousands of gallons, and sold to hundreds of thousands. Can it cure as well as though it had been compounded just for you?

Its makers say that thousands of people who have had Tetter and Saltrheum, Eczema, and Erysipelas, Carbuncles and Sore Eyes, Thick Neck and Enlarged Glands, are well to-day because they used it.

Suppose that this is so. Suppose that a quick-witted man was far-seeing enough to know that to cleanse the blood was to cleanse the life. Suppose that by many experiments, and after many failures, he discovered this golden key to health and that his faith in it for you is so strong that you can go to your druggist, buy a bottle, and if it doesn't help you, you can get your money returned—cheerfully. Will you try it?

The remedy to have faith in, is the remedy the makers themselves have faith in. tu-th-&w

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

I hear that arrangements are being made for the re-organizing of a mock parliament. Embryo statesmen and youthful debaters are anxious again to measure intellectual swords and display their political prowess over the mimic battle-field. I suppose a good purpose is subserved by these mock parliaments, providing healthful, intellectual amusement, and helping to train in habits of thought and impromptu speech. I should like to suggest to the coming Gladstones, Salisburys, Blakes and Bismarcks that they only debate really useful subjects, practical politics, or questions of undoubted interest. Mere technicalities, time-wasting speeches, like the famous Amor De Cosmos oration, or an address delivered evidently for the purpose of saying, "See how clever a debater I am," will neither attract young men of intellect to join nor accomplish any good. I suggest a fruitful topic of debate: The incompetency of Theodore Davie, Esq., as Premier, and the plundering and blundering of the present Government. Go at it in the intellectual "Sullivan and Corbett" style, and my blessing on your efforts.

One often hears of the scarcity of servant girls in this province. The wealthy, who are able to indulge in this luxury, complain that they cannot get any applicants for the post, and they are therefore compelled to resort to Chinese. Probably there is a great deal of truth in this, young women in the province preferring other forms of labor than hiring out for domestic service. Many of them also, perhaps, think their chances for marriage are greater in stores or shops, as dressmakers, milliners, teachers, than if performing duties considered menial, and further the long hours of unremitting toil and the social ostracism in the home are often barriers preventing young women of spirit and feeling taking situations as servants. If mistresses or employers would but remember that old country feudal notions are things of the past, that white servant girls like their evenings free as much as the Chinese cook, that no form of toil is degrading nor menial, probably more of our young women would offer for service. At any rate, there is no real lack of white labor under proper conditions.

Beware of peddlers, especially of—please do not think me prejudiced, Mr. Colman—Chinese peddlers. Side entrances and back doors are very convenient in the gloaming for the abstraction of small articles lying carelessly about, and the Chinese baskets partially empty are most convenient for such purposes. Stray tools or goods, bottles and jars are often so ready to hand that the Oriental mind must be trained thoroughly in honesty if he refrains from yielding to the temptation. And, would you believe it, ladies, you often pay more to the peddler than you can obtain the same article for in the stores, and obtain credit for it also. "Charge it," is a dialect unknown to the license-holder from the flowery land. He "no sabee" the principles of double-entry. I beg his pardon, though, he does, as the following incident will show. A merchant of this city purchased some bottles of a Chinese peddler, and agreed practically to take all the peddler could bring him. John of course was delighted. Regularly the bottles were presented, paid for and stacked in an outhouse. Somehow or other, although the purchases far exceeded the output for some time, the stack of bottles did not grow. Suspicions were aroused, and it was discovered that the astute Oriental abstracted the bottles during the "witching hour of night" and resold them to the same merchant in the daytime. The Celestials here have an element of humor in their composition. The last act in the comedy was played out in the magistrate's court. QUIZ.

LINCOLN AS A WRESTLER.

An Incident in the Life of the Railsplitter of Illinois.

The Century for September.]

At the time the Lincolns settled at Goose Nest Dan Needham was the champion wrestler in Cumberland county. This county joins Coles, the one in which the Lincolns lived. Needham had often been told that he would find his match in Tom Lincoln's boy Abe, but he would boast that he could "fling him three best out of four any day he lived." At last they met. It was at a house-raising on the Ambraw River. "Raisin's" at that time brought "neighbors" from many miles around, and I am told that at this one they came from as far south as Crawford county, more than 40 miles away. Thomas Lincoln came, and with him his boy Abe. After the work of the day, in which Abe and Dan matched handspikes many times, a "rassle" was suggested. At first Abe was unwilling to measure arms with Dan, who was six feet four and agile as a panther; but when Thomas Lincoln said, "Abe, rassle 'im," Abe flung off his coat, and the two stood face to face. Four times they wrestled, and each time Needham was thrown.

At the close of the fourth round the combatants again stood face to face, Abe flushed but smiling, Dan trembling with anger. However, one glance at the honest, good-natured face of his opponent cooled his rage, and extending his rough palm, he said, "Well, I'll be d——!" Ever after that they were warm friends. Needham survived Lincoln many years, and though he was a strong Democrat, he had nothing but good words for Abe. Several of his boys still live near the old homestead in Spring Point Township, Cumberland County, Ill. One daughter, the wife of W. P. Davis, a brother of the writer, resides on a farm near Roseland, Neb. Uncle Dan, as we called him, sleeps in a quiet churchyard hidden away in a deep forest. A braver heart never beat; and though his life was humble, I am sure that he did not lack for a welcome into the eternal city.

The merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is not accidental, but is the result of careful study and experiment by educated pharmacists.

ROMANTIC WEDDING.

The Bride Travels Alone Four Thousand Miles to Meet Her Lover.

From the Baltimore Sun.]

After travelling about 400 miles to meet her lover and then sitting in Union station, worried almost to distraction, from 8 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock, while the groom was running around the streets looking for her, Miss Amelia Bergh was recently married to J. B. H. Jessen, and they are now spending their honeymoon at their home, corner of Dolphin and Fremont streets. Both are natives of Hortu, Norway, and became engaged two years ago. The groom has travelled around the world, speaks four languages, and is an artist of marked ability. Eight months ago he came to Baltimore to be a draughtsman for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, and is now stationed at the Central building, Baltimore and Calvert streets.

A little over two weeks ago the bride, who had never left home before, started on the 4000 mile journey without knowing a word of English. Last Friday Mr. Jessen received a message from his brother in New York stating that his intended had arrived, and would leave at 5 in the afternoon for Baltimore.

Mr. Jessen then went to the home of Rev. James W. Rogan, and asked the minister to marry them at 10 that night, as it was then expected the bride would be in Baltimore in time for the ceremony.

About 9 o'clock the groom went to Union station to meet his bride, but the New York train arrived without her. He returned home and sent a telegram to his brother in New York inquiring for her whereabouts.

The minister was informed of the non-arrival of the bride, and the witnesses selected were told their services would not be needed. Drs. J. Ford and B. P. Muse, friends of the groom, volunteered to go to the Camden station to look for the bride. As no more trains from New York were due for several hours, the doctors returned to the groom's boarding house, where the three sat up late discussing the situation. The doctors left. Mr. Jessen felt worn out and took a few hours' sleep. He was up at six o'clock, however, and hurried out to Union station, but got no tidings of his intended.

In the mean time Miss Bergh had arrived. Instead of leaving New York at five she left at seven, and was delayed in Philadelphia, when she changed cars. She had trouble also in making the station employees understand her, as she spoke her native tongue. At 3 o'clock in the morning she arrived at Union station, with no one to meet her. After setting their in despair and wrestling with the English language for three hours she finally made a cabman understand where she wanted to go. She probably passed the groom on the way to the station while she was going to his boarding house. When he returned home he found her. At 11 o'clock they went to the home of the Rev. Mr. Rogan and were married.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

Pompadour Jim of San Francisco Beats Boston's Big Bruiser and Secures a Fortune

The Former Champion was Helpless —Victoria Jockey Club Race Meeting To-day.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 8.—John L. Sullivan is no longer heavy-weight champion of the world. "Champion of champions," as he was styled by his enthusiastic admirers. James C. Corbett, the whilom bank clerk of San Francisco, wrested the honor, if such it be, from the big Bostonian last night before the Olympic Club of New Orleans, in twenty-three rounds, in which the San Franciscan fairly played with Sullivan. Not only was the big Boston bully "knocked out," but he was most wholesomely pummelled, thumped, hammered and beaten in a way that must make everyone who has read of his blackguardism, his brutal beating of harmless newsboys, helpless waitresses and small, inoffensive men, rejoice, although they may take no interest whatever in the fight itself. Yes, Sullivan met Nemesis with a vengeance when he met young Corbett last night, and the only regret expressed among the non-pugilistic public is that the Californian did not thrash the big braggart twice as severely. It seems strange to read, after the tooting of Sullivan's trumpet all over the land previous to the battle: "Sullivan went down dazed," "Sullivan could not get up," "Sullivan seemed anxious," and "Sullivan was forced to the ropes twice and could not respond," etc. Sullivan says of his defeat:—

"He licked me fair and square; he is quicker than I am, but he is the only man in the world who can lick me," thus spoke the ex-champion early this morning. John was in the barroom of the St. Charles Hotel, beginning to whoop it up as few can but he. He spoke from his heart. He was not so much broken up as most people would suppose; physically he showed a swollen nose and black marks around the eyes, marks that the man never had before in his life. Most of the sports have little or no money in their pockets, for it is a well-known fact that a great number dropped their piles on Sullivan. It was not only Sullivan to win, but Sullivan to win in so many rounds, some placing the number so low as two. There is a "difference in the morning" in this case as in so many others, and woe and desolation reign.

Corbett bears his honor with becoming modesty, and so far his head remains at the usual size. That he is perhaps the happiest man in America is not altogether unnatural, and that he shows his joy is nothing to be wondered at. He speaks to friends and sees casual acquaintances as he always has done and appears like Jim Corbett of yesterday, or a year ago. A few daring individuals have nerve to-day to say that Sullivan was beaten because he was not in condition. "Look how fat he was," is heard once in a while, and stories about his drinking while in training are beginning to find circulation. But with honest and experienced judges there is but one opinion, and that is, Sullivan was whipped fairly on his merits and that the Corbett of last night could have done the same trick the best day Sullivan ever saw.

When he returned to his room at the hotel after the fight last night, Sullivan was for a time a very sore man. The first thing he said, when the doors closed, was: "I went once too often." After a short pause, in a half-broken voice, he said, "Once too often, and that's all about it." He fretted very much and backer Charley Johnston did all he could to cheer up the ex-champion. He sang and danced, and anyone entering the room, who did not know different, could have thought Johnston had backed the winner instead of the loser. He said all sorts of kind things to Sullivan to brace him up, but Sullivan had lost heart. A little later whiskey was brought in. Sullivan said he did not want any. "Boose," he continued, "is not good for anyone." To-doy he is staying in his room and he feels pretty blue, but gives Corbett due credit. Corbett has not a mark to show as a result of the contest. Like all the winners of the three fights he did all the punching and received no punishment worth mentioning. After the battle he expressed himself as being in form to fight four hours more if necessary.

Corbett says he lost four pounds during the contest. He expected a hard struggle, but reserved his strength until he discovered that he was a sure winner. Then he went in to finish his man in short order and did so. All the sports are so glum to-day that an expression of opinion on the merits of the battle is hard to get at present. Of the few who won a goodly amount may be mentioned Moses Guntt, of San Francisco; Parson Davies, Joe Chovnski, Joe Goddard and his brother Hugh, and the New York party that was down; Warren Lewis, Gus Tuthill, David Holland, Frank Stevenson and Billy Madden. Sullivan expects to leave here for New York to-morrow night. Corbett will appear in his new play "After Dark," at the Grand opera house this evening.

THEY DID EXTREMELY WELL.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 8.—The Olympic club is well satisfied with the result of their fights. The Sullivan-Corbett fight gave the greatest satisfaction, the largest crowd being present, and the price for the seats being the highest in the history of the club. The McAuliffe-Meyer fight caused the greatest disappointment; because not only did the club not make money on it, out it did not come up to expectations. The Skelly-Dixon fight turned out better than expected. There were at the first battle 4316 persons, at $7.50, $10 and $12 a seat. At the featherweight fight there were 3850 persons at $5, $7 and $10; at the Sullivan-Corbett fight about 6500 persons at $15, $20 and $25. This will make a total of $125,000 of receipts. The expenses attending the fights was $6000 and this, with the prizes, brings it almost up to $55,000, which ought to leave the club to the good by $70,000. It may fall slightly behind this, but not very much.

THE EXODUS BEGINS.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 8.—The exodus of sports commenced this morning, although it will be several days before the railroads will be able to furnish accommodations for the immense crowds attracted by the triple events. A good many of the visitors, moreover, will be compelled to remain here several days awaiting remittances from home, unless they prefer to start away on foot. The amount of money that changed hands on the events of the week runs up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, and is estimated by some to be as high as a million.

SACKCLOTH AND ASHES.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 8.—The home of the defeated champion showed its sorrow in a great howl of disappointment when the blackboards announced Corbett's victory last night. Nearly 20,000 people were wedged into Washington street, between State and Milk streets awaiting the news of the fight. It put the exciting Presidential election fight of eight years ago completely in the shade. Such an immense crowd was never seen in Boston's chief cowpath. Men were crushed and trampled upon by the excited throng and the police were helpless. Up to the last round the crowd felt confident that the big fellow would ultimately rise in his might and smite the presumptuous Californian, but the bulletins had told all along how he tried to, but could not land the sledgehammer blow with which he was expected to paralyze his opponent. Then came the announcement that Corbett had won. The few Corbett men yelled, but the great majority of the crowd looked on and said nothing. Sullivan's defeat will bring hardship to a good many of his followers.

GLAD HE'S A PUGILIST.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Mrs. Corbett, when informed that her husband was champion of the world said: "Yes, I knew he would be; I don't think he would trade with the President of the United States. I've always hated fighting before, but now I'm glad that Jim is a pugilist." She thereupon sent the following telegram: "Bless your heart we were not over confident, were we?" (Signed) OLLIE.

KILRAIN COMMENTS.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 8.—Many dollars were lost in Baltimore over Sullivan's defeat. The betting was at 4 to 2 and 2 to 1 on Sullivan. A crowd of sports congregated at Jake Kilrain's hotel to hear the ex-champion's account of the fight. Before the men entered the ring Kilrain said: "If Corbett should stay 20 rounds he will be a made man, providing he makes any showing. I do not expect Corbett to win." When the result was announced Kilrain said: "I am surprised. Sullivan did not seem to be in the fight at all. Corbett appears to have used the same tactics in this fight that Fitzsimmons did in his fight with Peter Maher. He made a fool of Sullivan. I am a big loser, but I have lots of company. I am afraid Sullivan has not the nature to stand defeat, and I doubt if he will do it gracefully. I suppose, now that Corbett has the championship, that Jackson will be after him with a challenge. I am out of it and intend to stay out."

TOUGHS AT LOGGERHEADS.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 8.—Ike Weir, the Belfast spider, had his face disfigured for life yesterday by a dirk in the hands of a drunken colored teamster named John Leston. The wound on Weir's left cheek is about two inches long and extends clear through to his mouth. It required eight stitches to sew it up. Leston was arrested immediately. The assault took place in front of the Howard Atneneaum. Leston was under the influence of liquor. He was celebrating the victory of Dixon over Skelly and Weir chaffed him and finally Leston struck the spider in the face several times. Wier then grappled with Leston and both fell, the colored man on top. Leston then drew a knife, and broke the blade in slashing Weir.

THE TURF

VICTORIA JOCKEY CLUB.

The fall meet of the Victoria Jockey Club was opened this afternoon at the Driving Park. Despite the fact that means of transportation were not satisfactory, the attendance was very good, and a few hours of rare good sport was promised. The track was in good shape, the rain and plenty of rolling improving it greatly.

The card for to-merrow is very good. It is as follows:

First Race—Trotting and Pacing. Open to all. Mile heats, 3 in 5. Purse, $400—A. H. Knight's Ha Ha, br.s., 9, black and orange, (A. H. Knight); P. Carey's Primero, b.s., 4, white, (H. H. Field); Joe Brown's Molly Cooper, s.m., 9, red and blue, (Reilly); Jas. Hickey's Mink, b.g., blue.

Second Race—Running. Half mile and repeat. For all horses foaled and raised in the Province. Purse, $250—W. J. McKeon's Jr. Mayflower, b.m., aged, blue and pink, (Millington); J. Payne's Shamrock, b.g., aged, blue and white, (G. McGuire); Wm. McNeill's Leap Year, b.m., 7, blue and white, red sash, (D. Mitchell); Jas. Straw's Domino, b.g., 5, pink and green, (Gannon).

Third Race—Running. Mile Dash. Open, Purse, $200—E. H. Roland's Johnnie Hooker, s.s., 5, orange and blue, (Roland); Geo. Hayes' Ripton, b.g., aged, blue and white; Broadmead Farm's Marcelle, bl.m., 5, true blue; F. Campbell's Jim Murphy, b.g., aged, red, white and blue, (Mitchell).

THAT WONDERFUL MARE.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 7.—Nancy Hanks to-day whittled two or three seconds more off the record on a regular track conceded to be two seconds slow and facing a strong breeze, for half the distance; she trotted a mile in 2:07 flat, breaking the record by a quarter of a second.

LACROSSE.

THE SHAMROCKS' OFFER.

The secretary of the Victoria Lacrosse Club is in receipt of a communication from the secretary of the Shamrock Lacrosse Club, of Montreal, written at the request of the New Westminster club, regarding a visit of the Shamrocks to this city. If the three clubs, Victoria, Vancouver and Westminster, unite to guarantee the expenses of the Shamrock team, 20 men, they will undertake the trip. The sum mentioned is large, and they are to have the option of the gross gate receipts. The Vancouver and Westminster clubs are being communicated with. The Victoria club are considering the proposal. The three clubs will act in concert in this matter.

THE WHEEL.

A COLOR QUERTION.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Cyclists and cycling clubs throughout the country will be interested in the result of the meeting this evening of the Associated Cycling Clubs, and at which it will be decided whether the Chicago Colored Cycling Club shall be permitted to enter the organization. The colored men of this city have a strong cycling club, the majority of the members being experts on the wheel, and it is claimed on their behalf that color should be no bar to their recognition by cycling organizations, whether local, state or national. They have presented their credentials and furnished ample proof of their existence as a club, so that the only question at issue will be the willingness of the white cyclists to associate with them.

Phœnix Lager Beer.

Not Much of an Affair.

The tall Lord Stradbroke had served under Wellington in Spain and afterwards fought at Quatre Bras, but was somewhat disabled from being at Waterloo; he was, moreover, almost the only Tory landlord whose abilities I ever heard Charles Austin praise. When he was staying with my father the conversation turned on the extraordinary passage in which Victor Hugo attributes Napoleon's fall to the divine jealousy (il genait Dieu) and in which, he assigns to human, or rather to British, agency any share in the giant's overthrow, he would have us believe that the credit was due to the British army alone and not to Napoleon's rival—would have us believe this et quantum Gallia mendax audet et in historia. "I heard the Duke say," remarked Lord Stradbroke, "that if he had had his old Peninsular army at Waterloo it would have been an affair of four hours. These were his words." This is remarkable as being the utterance of one who was never given to boasting.—The Fortnightly Review.
